Trending now — 2 topics with a genuine brand angle

1	The Brewers erased an early 4-0 deficit to beat the Rays 5-4 in World Series Game 2 on Saturday, Oct 24, taking a 2-0 series lead — Sal Frelick's 6th-inning homer tied it, Cooper Pratt drove in the go-ahead run in the 7th. A genuinely new, dated result distinct from Game 1's "overturned call" moment already covered — this one's defined by the comeback itself.	CBS Sports — Winners and losers from World Series Game 2; ESPN — Brewers 5-4 Rays box score	Instagram/LinkedIn, "down but not out" relatability post. "Down 4-0 after the first inning. Won anyway. The Brewers' Game 2 comeback is a decent reminder for anyone running a small business — a rough start to the day, the week, the season doesn't call the final score. Two games up now, two to go." A resilience/small-business framing distinct from Game 1's light "did you catch that ending?" engagement angle — no product tie-in, no betting/odds language.

2	Small Business Saturday 2026 is confirmed for November 28 (the SBA's official date, the Saturday after Black Friday) — now 4.5 weeks out. Prep guides are recommending businesses lock in their plan and list on American Express's free Shop Small Map now, since listings take 2–3 business days to go live. Americans spent an estimated $18 billion at small businesses on the 2025 event per Amex.	Jim.com — Small Business Saturday 2026: A Prep Checklist; eComposer — 51+ Small Business Saturday Ideas	LinkedIn/Instagram, owner-to-owner prep nudge. "Small Business Saturday is Nov 28 — about 4.5 weeks out. If you take Amex and haven't listed on their free Shop Small Map yet, that's worth doing now, since it can take a couple days to go live. Small businesses pulled in an estimated $18 billion on this one day last year — worth having a plan, not just an open sign." No pricing/discount claim — a genuine, dated, actionable prep reminder distinct from the NRF holiday-forecast angle already covered Oct 23.

Skipped, no genuine angle today: South Dakota's new vape/nicotine licensing rules — real but effective-date and final-enactment details couldn't be confirmed from available sources; holding rather than reporting unconfirmed specifics as fact. Halloween-on-Saturday alcohol-sales angle — the only stats found were undated or clearly years old, and one specifically risked overconsumption-adjacent framing against brand guardrails — skipped on both freshness and compliance grounds. Diwali (Nov 8) — no news dated this week beyond calendar confirmation already covered. Loyalty-program news, payments/fintech news, hemp/CBD news — nothing found dated to this week.

Compliance check: neither idea implies pricing, encourages overconsumption, or uses underage-adjacent framing — #1 is a neutral sports-resilience post with no product mention; #2 is a factual, dated prep reminder with no discount or price named.
