Trending now — 1 topic with a genuine brand angle

#	Trend	Source	Brand-twist content idea
1	Today, Nov 4, is National Candy Day — a real, dated-today food observance, genuinely distinct from the Halloween-specific candy angles already covered (Kroger's restock story Oct 23, NielsenIQ's sales/price data Oct 29) since this is a year-round candy-aisle hook, not tied to the Halloween event itself.	National Day Calendar — November 4	Instagram, light candy-aisle merchandising nudge. "It's National Candy Day — good timing to move past the Halloween clearance bins and make sure your everyday candy selection is actually fresh and well-stocked again, not still buried under leftover seasonal stuff." No pricing claim, no overconsumption framing — a neutral post-Halloween shelf-reset nudge.

Skipped / unconfirmed, despite extensive searching across convenience-store news, Halloween final spending tallies, state vape/CBD law, TikTok trends, Target's Black Friday launch, gas prices, loyalty programs, Diwali business news, retail theft/shrink, and fintech/payments news: nothing dated to this week surfaced beyond what's already been covered on prior days. Halloween final spending results — still only the pre-event NRF $13.5B forecast; no post-holiday tally published. Gas prices — only unverified prediction-market estimates. Loyalty news — nothing dated past late October (a UK-specific award felt like a stretch for a US audience). State vape/CBD law — nothing fresher than weeks-to-months old. TikTok trends — no November-specific sound/challenge confirmed. Diwali, retail theft/shrink, fintech/payments — all stale or promotional, nothing dated to this week.

Compliance check: the one idea implies no pricing, no overconsumption, and no underage-adjacent framing — it’s a neutral candy-aisle merchandising nudge with no alcohol/tobacco/CBD mention.
