About this edition

This is the sixth edition of this recurring report (delivered every 4 days). This edition prioritized finally resolving the Atlanta City Hall Diwali status now that Diwali has passed. For the full standing list of leads not mentioned again below (because nothing has changed), see the October 22, October 25, October 29, November 1, and November 5 editions.

Resolved this edition

Atlanta City Hall Diwali — the “live lead” from edition 5 turns out to be a false signal. The CoHNA X post that looked like a 2026 pre-event announcement was traced back to its actual post date: October 18, 2025 — it was promoting the third-annual celebration (which ran Oct 20, 2025), not a new 2026 event. No coverage of an actual 2026 Atlanta City Hall Diwali celebration was found, and Diwali has now passed (Nov 7–8) with nothing confirmed either way. This is genuinely unresolved rather than closed — it may have happened without press coverage, or may not have happened this year. Further search-based rechecking has low odds of resolving it further; if this still matters, a direct contact with CoHNA or the Mayor’s office ahead of October 2027 is the more reliable path than another research pass.

Johns Creek Diwali Celebration — now passed. Ran as scheduled, Nov 7. The strongest Diwali-adjacent lead this report found all season has closed out for the year.

Other status updates

- Kennesaw Holiday Extravaganza — registration deadline reconfirmed Nov 15, 2026, $25 individual, still open, 6 days out.

- Marietta Square Merry Market — still no confirmed 2026 date. A third-party "Dec 1, 2026" listing surfaced but falls on a Tuesday (the event has always run Saturdays) — flagged as unreliable, likely mislabeled.
- Stockbridge — still unconfirmed for either event; the two (Holiday Festival & Tree Lighting vs. "Welcome to Grinchville") remain confirmed as separate 2025 events, not a rebrand.
- Smyrna — still unconfirmed; a separate "Smyrna Holiday Market" (Dec 5–6, Brawner Hall/Reed House) surfaced, distinct from the already-flagged "Home for the Holidays."
- Covington — still unconfirmed; the inferred Nov 19, 2026 date (Thursday before Thanksgiving) remains inference only, not confirmed.
- Fayetteville — still unconfirmed; pattern remains early-to-mid December Saturday.
- Henry County Thanksgiving food drives — still no 2026-confirmed event with sponsor details. The county's recurring "Full Plates, Full Hearts" drive-thru program is real and ongoing but no 2026 Thanksgiving-specific date found.
- Atlanta BeltLine Small Business Saturday Marketplace — still no Nov 28 listing. A useful benchmark remains available: $100 non-refundable for a 10×10 booth on comparable fall 2026 markets, with priority placement going to vendors who complete the BeltLine's own Small Business Assessment ahead of time.

New opportunities

None found this pass — no genuinely new city, county, or event type surfaced beyond what's already tracked across the first five editions.

A note on research efficiency

Marietta Square Merry Market, Stockbridge, Smyrna, Covington, and Fayetteville have now gone unconfirmed across 3+ consecutive editions, despite all being well within their typical announcement windows. Continued search-based rechecking of these five specifically has diminishing returns at this point — if any of them remain a priority, a direct call or email to the city/organizer is now the more efficient path than another research pass. Future editions will keep a lighter check on these but won't re-run exhaustive searches on the same five names every 4 days.

This report recurs every 4 days. Each edition leads with status changes and new leads, and skips repeating anything unchanged from the prior edition.
